Credit Corporation supports Transparency International PNG

Credit Corporation (PNG) Limited renewed its commitment to fight against corruption with a K20,000 donation to Transparency International PNG (TIPNG).

According to Credit Corporation Chief Executive Officer (CEO), Danny Robinson, companies within the private sector have a clear responsibility in ensuring business is conducted in an ethical manner.

“Anti-corruption organizations such as TIPNG play an important role our society and we would like to commend the TIPNG team for the work they do in promoting transparency and integrity both within the private and public sector,” Robinson added.

TIPNG CEO, Arianne Kassman, who was present to receive the donation, thanked Credit Corporation for its continuous support and highlighted the need for more companies to join the fight against corruption.

“Our success in the anti-corruption space would not be possible without our donors. We thank Credit Corporation for its continuous support, and we hope more companies will join the fight against corruption,” said Kassman.

Credit Corporation has been a corporate member of TIPNG since 2006, supporting the anti-corruption agency with financial assistance to facilitate several of its core projects including policy and advocacy activities conducted throughout the country.
